With the installation of the new IBM 360/195 computer in 1973, the earlier system of entering rainfall data via punched cards was abandoned. A new 'processor-controlled keying' (PCK) system was introduced which enters the data direct on to magnetic tape whilst enabling the keying operator to see the data displayed on a visual display screen. The opportunity was taken of eliminating the verification stage (the double-punching to reduce error), for the new PCK system is programmed to check the sum of the daily values with the observer's total for the month: if they do not agree the data are rejected for manual scrutiny and correction before the postcard is resubmitted for keying.

The photograph shows an operator keying rainfall-postcard data.

INTRODUCTION

This publication

1. The present publication is the fifth in the new paper-back series which provides the information on rainfall over the United Kingdom that was formerly given in Part I of British Rainfall. It gives monthly and annual totals of rainfall and, where available, the rainfall on the wettest day of the year by amount and date(s).

Station details

2. The publication includes the 'Hydrometric Station Number' for each station: this is the reference number used by the Meteorological Office to identify station data.

3. The county in which the rain-gauge site is located is given by a 'County Number'. A decode of the county numbers is given on page xi. (The counties in use in this volume are those in use in 1973, that is prior to the 1974/75 Local Government reorganization.)

4. The location of the rain-gauge site is given by National Grid Reference to the nearest 100 metres, and the altitude of the rain-gauge site above mean sea level is given to the nearest metre.

5. The name of the rainfall station is that used by the Meteorological Office under rules which require that the primary name should normally appear on the 1-inch Ordnance Survey map and/or its 1:50 000 metric successor. Where stations exist on islands, the island name is given in capital letters as the first part of the name. Where it is desirable to identify the location beyond the name of the town, village, etc., a supplementary part of the name appears after a comma. In a decreasing number of cases it is desirable to retain the name under which data were published in British Rainfall (prior to 1969): thus there will remain some instances where longer-term station names do not adhere to these rules and the names may not in fact appear on current Ordnance Survey maps. Abbreviations or initials are used only in forms that are readily identifiable, although there are rules applicable to certain standard abbreviations, such as S. Wks = Sewage Works (or Sewage Treatment Works), P. Sta. = Pumping Station, Res. = Reservoir, Met. Office = Meteorological Office (where the term applies only to sites manned by personnel of the Meteorological Office or at Royal Naval Air Stations by personnel of the Directorate of Naval Oceanography and Meteorology).

* Where a station name is prefixed by an asterisk, the rain-gauge is set with its rim at ground level, surrounded by a pattern of antisplash grid which is acceptable to the Meteorological Office.

# Where a station name is prefixed by a hatch symbol, the station is located in England although it is shown within the Hydrometric Areas associated with Scottish River Purification Boards; such stations fall within the data areas of the Northumbrian River Authority if in the north-east, or of the Cumberland River Authority if in the north-west.

\> Where a station name is prefixed by a 'greater than' sign, the data originated from a rain-gauge of a tipping-bucket type which provides data acceptable to Meteorological Office standards for data archiving purposes.

6. The average annual rainfall at stations for the latest reference period, 1941–70, is given in as many cases as possible. Estimated averages are not included. The ability to include values for this latest reference period arises solely from the delay in publication of the 1973 data; it is not usually possible to introduce new averages until a few years after the end of the reference period. Thus, values of percentage of annual average now printed will be somewhat different from those published for selected stations at an earlier date (e.g. the Monthly Weather Report for 1973), for which the averages relating to the 1916–50 period were in operational use. Representative figures (Table B) for the monthly and annual rainfall of 1973 in England, Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and the Isle of Man are given as percentages of the longer-period averages (1941–70) in Tables C and D.

7. River flow measurement stations, although in some cases allocated a 'Hydrometric Station Number', are not included in the publication.

Rivers and streams

8. The publication follows earlier practice in that it endeavours to associate rain-gauges with particular catchments and accordingly names the associated rivers and streams.

9. It is not practicable to identify every stream in the country and some minor features have necessarily been ignored. However, in general, a stream is separately identified if it is more than four miles long and has, or has had, a number of rainfall stations within its catchment.

10. As with station names, a number of subjective decisions have had to be taken. The name of the river or stream not uncommonly changes throughout its course: a stream which enters and leaves a lake may thereby acquire a new name. In general, such rivers are identified by the name in use at the lowest reaches, that at the mouth or that at the confluence with a larger river to which it is a tributary.

River authorities and hydrometric areas

11. Although changes in local government boundaries and changes in water authority organization took place in 1974/75 and this booklet is published after that time, the data are related to arrangements in existence at the time of the observations and to the river authority areas (in Scotland to River Purification Board areas) in 1973.

Data

12. The unit of rainfall amount that is used is the millimetre (mm). Monthly and annual totals are the summation of daily and monthly totals in that unit. If for any station or any period the unit of measurement was the inch, the daily data have been converted to millimetres; the monthly totals now reported for such stations are the sums of the daily millimetric equivalents of the rainfall measured.

13. The data from each station have been subjected to the routine quality-control procedure in operation by the Meteorological Office at the time of data receipt. Any corrections or adjustments have been incorporated in the figures now presented.

14. Certain practices operating during the period of publication of British Rainfall have been kept, namely the retention in archives of all data as originally submitted, and the omission from the published information of data from stations which appear too unrepresentative of the rainfall regime indicated by the bulk of rainfall stations in the area.

15. The present publication continues the practice commenced with the first new paper-back edition, that for 1969, in that reports from stations from which data for the year are incomplete are included. Some stations opened or closed during the year and for others a local shift of site occurred which is thought to have been sufficient to raise doubts about the homogeneity of the old and new observations. New hydrometric station numbers have been allocated in the latter instance.

16. When data are missing in a random manner from the Meteorological Office data set for 1973, then the station in question will not, in general, be included in the lists of published data. In a certain limited number of cases, missing monthly totals are estimated and such estimated values are shown in the table by brackets around the totals. Where totals have been subject to substantial amendment during the quality-control process, this too is indicated by the presence of brackets around the rainfall totals. Such amendments, in addition to the treatment accorded to suspect daily values, could arise for example from the reapportionment of rainfall reported when the observation on the first day of the month has been missed, or because of adjustments arising from snowfall.

17. The maximum amount of rainfall in a rainfall-day is given in the last column together with the date of its occurrence. Should the amount be equalled on other dates within the year, those other dates are included, subject to a maximum of three date entries, shown in date order. For stations which commenced or terminated within the year (i.e. with some months' entries shown as dashes) the maximum daily amount is shown related to the period of available data. The maximum daily fall is not shown for stations whose data were received only as monthly totals or for which, for one reason or another, daily data are incomplete for the relevant period of record within the year.

18. It has not proved possible to review the data for stations in Scotland to include incomplete-year data for 1973.

Availability

19. This series of booklets has been introduced to meet the needs within the Meteorological Office. Further, it provides the opportunity to acknowledge the contribution of many enthusiastic, private rainfall observers and co-operating rainfall station authorities who may receive a free copy for the period during which the data from their station(s) are published.

20. Whilst the booklets are not produced for sale, the Meteorological Office is prepared to release surplus copies, on repayment, to libraries, universities and other educational establishments, and indeed to individuals, particularly if they wish to maintain a series of publications of rainfall data as a continuation of the former British Rainfall series.

21. The publications are available only from the Meteorological Office: they will not be available through Her Majesty's Stationery Office. Applications should be made to one of the addresses given below:

The National Grid is used for locating rainfall stations in Great Britain. The Irish Grid is used for stations in Northern Ireland, and the Universal Transverse Mercator (Zone 30U) for stations in the Channel Islands.
